mcr wins Sun Microsystems and ITX awards

Date 21st January 2008

Information technology services provider, mcr Computer Resources, won top honours at the ITX awards evening recently.

mcr was awarded the ITX 'NSW Reseller of the year award' – an award that is decided based on revenue, partnering and commitment criteria.

In addition, for their commitment to Sun Microsystems in 2007, mcr won the prestigious ITX 'Sun Reseller of the Year' award. ITX Sun Server Manager, John Poulter said, 'mcr has been a key ITX partner for many years. This award is indicative of their long standing partnership and commitment to exceeding their revenue goals.'

Michael Salama, Sales Manager at mcr said that the award highlighted mcr's credibility in the Sun solutions space. Being information technology specialists, mcr operates in a sphere where its very survival depends on a close association with leading technology owners. Being the leading Sun Microsystems reseller means both mcr, and its clients, can prosper from the specialised service that is vital for managing mission critical infrastructure solutions.

"The award pays homage to our commitment to building and maintaining an engineering, support and sales team that can add measurable value to our customers. It proves we are capable of delivering high levels of Sun engineering and consulting resources."
