MCR set to offer better IT solutions

By ERIC TAPAKAU

A new information technology (IT) services and infrastructure solutions provider has entered the Papua New Guinea market with an aim to provide high quality services.

Australian IT firm MCR officially launched its intentions to enter the local market last Friday at a Port Moresby hotel in a gathering that was witnessed by senior officials from different companies.

MCR is an IT services and infrastructure solutions provider and has been a major player in the Australian market for 22 years concentrating mainly in New South Wales, Victoria and Australian Capital Territory.

In the past two years MCR has been expanding its operation in PNG, providing IT infrastructure and networking equipment along with managed services to customers as large as Telikom PNG.

The aim of the launch was to give an overview of MCR capabilities and how MCR can help to reduce IT costs and manage IT infrastructure by being a partner of choice to its customers.

"MCR is an IT service and infrastructure solutions provider for major corporations and government organisations in Australia," MCR executive chairman Harry Vakili said. He said MCR was founded more than 20 years ago in Sydney and relied on a national business network of satisfied long-term customers in Australia. Mr Vakili said it was an IT service and infrastructure solutions provider for major corporations and government organisations in Australia.

He said MCR was looking forward to working and providing the same quality services and solutions for businesses, organisations and clients in PNG.

The presentation was well received with participants commenting favourably about MCR's emergence into the domestic market.
